

SP16: SIO114/ETHN 136

The Science and Critical Analysis of Environmental Justice

Tues/Thurs- 11:00am-12:20pm

Cross-Departmental Course in Ethnic Studies and Scripps Institution of Oceanography

Calling all social justice & environmental justice students!

Enroll NOW for this new SIO/Ethnic Studies course!

SIO section ID is 874644 & ETHN section ID is 874645

Course Description:

This is a survey course that will tackle critical issues such as environmental racism, climate change, toxic air quality, and decolonial struggles both historic and present. Students will be introduced to the frameworks by which the relationship between humanity and the environment is studied through exposure to both local and global-scale case studies, the scientific underpinnings, and critical ethnic studies discourse.

Please Note

We will take the existence of environmental injustices, and its intersections, as a given. This course will not be about debating whether they exist, but about exploring the underlying mechanism for these multiple injustices and struggles against them.